ANTIOCH - The Village of Antioch and Antioch Township had a lot of celebrate April 19, and it was all in the name of Tim Osmond.

Residents, as well as village and township officials, gathered for the dedication and opening ceremony of the Tim Osmond Sports Complex, an 80-acre park.

The sports complex, which is on Depot Street, recently completed phase one of the four-phase project, and everyone seemed thrilled about it at the ceremony.

"The dedication was wonderful,"

Antioch Village President Dorothy Larson said. "There were so many people from the community that are just family people that are thrilled that we're going to have these type of athletic field for the kids to play sports in."

The complex is named after late State Rep. Timothy H. Osmond, who died in 2002.

"It is a great name for the park," Larson said.

According to a release for the village, the township and village have been working on this project for the past five years.

Road trips, funny women and engagements

Warm weather is here again, which means the return of flowers,
birds and road trips.

Here at the Journal, we don't have any free flowers or birds to give out, but we do have road trip suggestions.

Next week, we'll debut Day
Tripping on the front page of our Lake County section. It will be a series about short road trips for Lake County residents.

Look for it the first of each month.
And then get out and go.

Getting married? Just married?
Been married for a long time?

We want all of you in our paper.

might have to Nancy Thielsen at

I'm looking forward to seeing who else is taking the plunge.

In my best Rip Torn in "Men in Black" voice: "We're looking for the best of the best of the best."

In other words, we're getting ready for our Student Leaders section here at the Journal.

Every year, we talk to schools and find two student leaders from each.

Find out who was chosen in a few weeks.

Funny women abound at the Lake County Journals.

This week, we debut Judi Veoukas in the Lake County section. Her column, Off the Deep End, will be in the paper on the first and third week of each month. On the second and fourth week of each month, Jana

Thompson will be in this spot.

And here's a special treat for you.
Baskin-Robbins' 31 Cent Scoop

Officials seek grants, donation to pay for complex

• OSMOND

The completion of phase one included the opening of the playground and baseball fields.

Antioch Township supervisor Steve Smouse said phase one cost $1.1 million.

"We've got three more phases," Larson said. "You can figure that [with] the cost of those, we're talking a $3.5 million field when it's completed."

Also on hand at the dedication was Tim's wife, State Rep. JoAnn Osmond, R-Antioch.

"It's such an honor," Osmond said.
"He loved sports, any kind of sport. And it's just perfect for his memory."

Larson also thought naming the park after Tim Osmond was fitting.

"He was about helping, giving back to his community," Larson said.

Now that phase one is complete, the village and township are looking to raise funds for the next three phases.

Trustee Bob McCarty said the village is applying for the Hamburger Helper grant, which would be for $15,000.

The village should know by May 15,
McCarty said.

Officials also are looking to raise funds for the complex.

"It's all about how fast we can raise funds, when the next phase can begin,"
Larson said.

Smouse said officials would like to rely very little on tax money in order to pay for the park.

"We want the best park we can afford," he said.

Keep celebrating

Tim Osmond also was remembered
another way that day. The Tim Osmond
Exhibit opened at The Meeting House,
977 Main St. in Antioch.

"I think it's a wonderful tribute to Tim," JoAnn Osmond said.

The exhibit included pictures of Tim throughout his life as well as awards and memorabilia.

JoAnn said those who showed up to see the exhibit included Tim's fraternity brothers from Theta Chi.

"It's good memories," JoAnn said.

The exhibit was put together by Jeannine Pedersen, curator of the Catalina Island Museum.

"My family has been good friends with the Osmond family since I was born," Pedersen said. "My mom worked for Tim as a legislative aide and she also works for JoAnn, now. I grew up with Colleen and Mike, their kids. It was just an easy decision. JoAnn asked if I would and I said, 'absolutely.'"

The Meeting House is open to the public the first Saturday of the month from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

JoAnn said she thought if Tim were here to see all this in honor, he would have been a little embarrassed.

"I would say he'd be happy, but a little embarrassed because he thought that's just the way that you should live,"
JoAnn said.

Music fills Antioch High School

Students to perform 'The Sound of Music' for spring musical

By JESSICA JACOBSEN
jjacobsen@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH — Students at Antioch Community High School have been giving it their all to get ready for the spring musical, "The Sound of Music."

Wanda Teddy, director for the performance, said students have even used their study hall period to get in some extra practice.

"The kids have owned up," Teddy said about the students' effort.

A lot of work has gone into preparing for the performances, which will be at 7 p.m. April 24-26.

Teddy said students have spent a lot of time working on the choreography as well as vocals.

“People should come to be entertained and enjoy a classic.”

Wanda Teddy

Director of Antioch Community High School's production of "The Sound of Music"

“The students also were able to build character connections by reading about the real-life von Trapp family.”

"They've enjoyed the experience," Teddy said.

The part of Maria von Trapp will be played by junior Ashley Meyer; Captain von Trapp will be played by sophomore Dylan Zobel; Max Detweiler, the music promoter, will be played by junior Erik Peters; and senior Anna Farrell will play Baroness Elsa Schrader.

"You have a lot of underclassmen in bigger parts," Teddy said about her cast.

This is Teddy's first year at Antioch High School, but she thinks the students have enjoyed the guidance she has provided them in this production.

Cost for the performance is $5 for adults and $3 for seniors and students.

"People should come to be entertained and enjoy a classic," Teddy said.

A friendly reminder

Now that it looks like spring is here to stay, many of you might be thinking about sprucing up your yards.

When you go out to buy fertilizers to give your grass that bright green color, don't forget that the village passed an ordinance last year banning the use of fertilizer containing phosphorus.

This might make shopping for fertilizer a little harder this spring, but remember this is to limit the amount of phosphorus concentration in the village's lakes, streams and rivers.

If you are looking for a great deal, stop by the Antioch Cub Scout Pack 191 rummage sale.

The pack will have a rummage sale from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 26.

The sale is to raise money for the pack's summer camping trip.

If you aren't looking for a deal, but for a place to donate your gently-used items, then you can donate them to a rummage sale from 5 to 9 p.m. Friday, April 25, at the Senior Center.

For more information, e-mail rummage@antioch191.mypack.us.

As you might have noticed, the old Antioch water tower was taken down Monday, April 21.

Because of deadline constraints, I couldn't follow up on this, but I hope to have more to tell you about it for next week's edition.

If you have any stories ideas or events you think would be of interest for readers, feel free to send me an e-mail at jjacobsen@nwnewsgroup.com.

ANTIOCH – Spring and bling will be in the air during the first Antioch Spring Jewelry & Accessory Craft Faire on Saturday, April 26, and Sunday, April 27.

The fair will feature 20 vendors selling an array of handcrafted items, including belts, scarves, hats and jewelry, said Barbara Porch, executive director of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce, which is hosting the event.

"Lots of bling – that's our goal," Porch said. "Ladies love it. That's why we came up with the theme of jewelry and accessories."

Fair vendors will set up tables on the sidewalks along Main, Lake and Orchard streets in downtown Antioch. Businesses in those areas also have been invited to sell items outdoors during the weekend, Porch said.

"We've encouraged our downtown storefronts to spill out into the sidewalks," she said. "The more the merrier."

"I'm making earrings, necklaces and brooches," she said. "I'll have barrettes for $10; and I think the highest [priced] thing I'll have is an earring-and-necklace set for $120."

The Antioch Spring Jewelry & Accessory Craft Faire will take place from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 26, and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, April 27.

Antioch named Tree City USA for 16th year

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

ANTIOCH – The National Arbor Day Foundation named Antioch Tree City USA for the 16th year.

Tree City USA is a program in cooperation with the National Association of State Foresters and the USDA Forest Service.

To receive this recognition, communities have to meet four standards:

- A tree board or department
- A tree care ordinance
- A comprehensive community forestry program
- An Arbor Day observance.

This year's observance will be from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, April 26, at Trevor Creek Park, off of Trevor Road at 358 Kennedy Drive.

At the event, the Antioch Arbor Day committee, park board members, community leaders, and Antioch organizations and youth groups will gather to plant trees, shrubs, flower beds, and spread mulch.

Village employee Tom Dvorak has played a large part in the ground for the event.

"We are very proud of this community effort each year and the work done by the volunteers in such a short period of time," Dvorak said in a release. "These volunteer organizations show up each year, work hard and it pays off when you see how beautiful the park looks after half a days work."

Doughnuts and coffee will be provided to the volunteers during the planting, courtesy of Baskin Robbins, Dunkin' Donuts in Antioch. There also will be pizza and hot dogs after the project from Dominoes Pizza and Big Bites.

T-shirts and hats will be handed out to volunteers for their work.

Residents also can reserve Colorado Blue Spruce Seedlings, which can be picked up that day from 10 a.m. to noon. There will be 800 seedling distributed.

To reserve five free seedlings, send a request to Antioch Arbor Day, Free Trees Program, 806 Holbek Drive, Antioch, IL 60002. Requests should include a name and address.

Junior Woman's Club to welcome new members

ANTIOCH – The Antioch Jr. Woman's Club will have its closing dinner and installation of the 2008-09 officers at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, May 13, at Elements Restaurant in Antioch. The Antioch Jr. Woman's club was formed in 1987. The club provides charitable not-for-profit services to the community. The juniors put in many volunteer hours each year working on charitable, philanthropic and education projects to benefit human welfare through volunteer activities. A common quality of each member is the desire to be a part of the community and to make the community a better place to live.

During the 2007-08 club year, the Junior Woman's Club had its annual Comedy Night Fundraiser and donated funds to many local charities as well as a larger donation to the Tim Osmond Sports Complex and Open Arms Mission as well as two $500 scholarships.

Meetings are held at the AmericaUnited Bank on the second Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. from September through April. If you are interested in becoming a member, call Laurie at 847-395-2958 or 847-395-2160.

Honestly now

"Do these pants make my hips look wide?" I asked my husband as I stared horrified into the mirror.

"Define wide," he said.

"Wide!" I repeated. "Do my hips look wide?"

"Uh, uh, uh," he stammered.

"OK," I explained. "If you say they are the width of one of the Hilton sisters, well - both of the Hilton sisters together - that is good thing. If you say they are as wide as our giant plasma TV screen, that is a bad thing."

"Who are the Hilton Sisters?"

"Oh for goodness sake," I shrieked. "You do think my hips are wide!"

He disappeared from the room. I saw in the mirror that my hips had expanded, but still I would have loved the words, "Honey, you look wonderful just as you are," followed by "and not the least bit wide."

So where can I turn if I want positive feedback on my appearance, even if it's not quite accurate? My children? When they were little, I could wear a ratty bathrobe, let my hair stand on end like a rooster's comb, have both eyes inflamed by pink eye, and yet one of the three would always say, "Mommy pretty."

Now they are grown with children of their own and how I look is of little consequence to them. Mostly I appear in their lives to baby-sit their offspring and they wouldn't notice if I came dressed in Goth, so eager are they to get out the door.

As for my children's children, I remember cuddling with my oldest granddaughter, waiting her first sentence. I admit to feeding her the words, "Grandma so lovely." Her actual first sentence was, "Grandma neck wiggly."

Now she's a teenager and barely talks, which is just as well. If she did, she'd say, "Grandma, like your neck is wigglier than ever." Still, there is a place I can go for positive affirmation on my appearance: I have women friends, and they'll give it their strongest shot. For instance, when my hair was unfortunately dyed crimson before my last vacation they earnestly studied my trip photos and said, "You match the autumn foliage."

Female friends are wonderful, but still, I think a woman needs an occasional compliment from the man in her life.

To that end, I picked a strategy that just had to work. As we were dozing off I said to my spouse, "Honey, what was the first thing you found attractive about me?"

"Uh, uh, uh," I heard, followed by silence.

"Well," I told him, "while you think about it, let me describe what attracted me to you. It was your liquid brown eyes, your wavy hair, and the way you barely spoke above a whisper."

Silence. The man is technically oriented and must think everything through so I waited. And waited. Soon I was asleep. What seemed like hours later, half awake, I heard a murmur.

"Your teeth."

"WHAT?" I asked, not quite coherent. He still barely speaks above a whisper, only now it's annoying.

"Your teeth. That was the first thing I noticed about you. You still have nice teeth, even though they're getting a kind of yellow."

I stifled the urge to bite his head off with my yellowing teeth. Instead I uttered, "Define what you mean by a kind of yellow. Do you mean garish yellow, like a school bus, or soft tan like Old Yeller?" I followed with, "Remember, positive is good."

"Old Yeller," he whispered. "He was such a good dog."

State legislator fields questions about roads, taxes from students

By DANI SCHWEIGERT

State Sen. Michael Bond, D-Grayslake, talks with College of Lake County students Arline Collado, a member of the Asian Student Alliance, and Jesse Davis, a student senator and vice president of the Asian Student Alliance.

GRAYSLAKE - Understanding what residents want is an important aspect of politics, which is why State Sen. Michael Bond, D-Grayslake, travels around Lake County to talk with residents.

On April 18, Bond stopped by College of Lake County to find out what's important to students and to share plans to improve the county.

Sipping coffee, Bond greeted the crowd and asked, "What's on your mind?"

Arline Collado, a member of the Asian Student Alliance, voiced her concern about textbook prices and road conditions. While she said she's frustrated with the construction in the area, she understands that it's necessary.

"I guess that's the price we have to pay if we want something to change," she said.

Bond told her about the College Textbook Publishing Practices Act, which he said would help address costly textbooks.

For many years, it was taken for granted that community growth was synonymous with progress.

Group acts to bolster Extension funds

By KATHY GRESEY
kgressey@nwnewsgroup.com

GRAYSLAKE – The Lake County Extension Foundation is launching a fundraising effort in light of a financial crisis faced by the University of Illinois Extension.

Foundation organizers are raising money to make up for a $247,000 shortfall in funds the state had budgeted for the University of Illinois Extension in Lake County.

Statewide, more than $10 million in funds will not be released to Extension offices, officials said.

"We were notified that the dollars just don't exist," Lake County Extension Director Kay Doll said.

Because of the deficit, the Extension in Lake County will have to reduce its 2008 budget

At a glance

U of I Extension in Lake County offers information on a variety of topics:

- Agriculture
  - Community and economic development
  - Family life and consumer economics
  - The environment
  - Nutrition and health
- It also conducts 4-H programs, which help young people develop the knowledge and skills they need to become productive residents.

by 44 percent. Revenue for the year was expected to total about $571,500, officials said, adding that staff eliminations are being considered.

Also, the local Extension could lose money for its Stamp

Nutritional Education Program, which serves more than 18,000 residents through grants that require state-matched funds.

Kruti Patel, president of the Lake County Extension Foundation Board, said fundraising could help alleviate the issues now faced by the Extension in Lake County.

"Right now, we're trying to get awareness out," she said. "Our plan is to raise more revenue. We will be putting together [specific] fundraiser programs."

Those who would like to donate money to the University of Illinois Extension in Lake County can do in person or by mail. The office is at 100 S. Route 45, Grayslake, IL 60030.

Confectionery's candy is hand-made

• CHOCOLATE

Production takes place at the company's 85,000-square-foot factory in Buffalo Grove, where hundreds of products are made and shipped internationally.

The process is involved, Holterman said.

"I don't think anybody realizes how much work goes into a piece of candy before they eat it," she said. "All of our candy is handmade, and I really think that is a big deal. Most places make it by machine."

Caroline Eunger, an eighth-grade student at Fremont Middle School in Mundelein, recommended the tour after visiting the facility with her classmates Friday as part of a unit on manufacturing.

"I learned a lot," Eunger said. "I thought it was interesting how much craftsmanship went into making a piece of chocolate."

The Long Grove Confectionery Co. has stores in Long Grove, Wilmette, Chicago, and at the factory in Buffalo Grove. Store goodies include chocolate-covered marshmallows, chocolate-covered apricots, peanut butter cups and chocolate-covered nuts.

Items also will be sold during the Long Grove Chocolate Festival.

Jodi Hutch, director of retail operations and tour facilities at the Long Grove Confectionery Co., said one piece of the company's chocolate could make a person happy.

"It takes just a single piece of our chocolate to satisfy a craving," she said. "With other pieces of chocolate, it takes a lot more."

Want to know more?

• To learn more about the Long Grove Confectionery Co., visit www.longgrove.com or call 847-459-3100. The factory is at 333 Lexington Drive, Buffalo Grove. Tours are scheduled by appointment Tuesday through Thursday and cost $2. Free tours that do not require reservations are from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturdays. Factory store hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Turn off TV? Yes, we can!

For many, the thought of turning off our TVs for a full week seems ludicrous.

How could we possibly miss "American Idol" or "Flavor of Love" or all those reality dancing shows? Really, the programming is just too darn good.

Yet, despite the fact we are in a sort of golden age of TV, one group of activists is suggesting we do the unthinkable: Turn off our TVs - and our computers, and Playstations, and Xboxes, and Wiis - this week as part of "Turnoff Week."

The Center for Screen-Time Awareness has been under the impression for years that if people turn off their TVs, they will be more inclined to talk to family members, exercise and do other healthy activities.

For years, "Turnoff Week" focused on TV, but now it has expanded to other electronic gadgetry.

We'd like to ask the Center for Screen-Time Awareness how, exactly, we are supposed to entertain children if we turn off their TVs and Wiis.

Are we supposed to ask them to imagine fun things?

Bah.

Today's kids need high performance game systems with state-of-the-art graphics.

Asking them to play outside and invent games would be cruel.

Sarcasm aside, "Turnoff Week" is a reminder to us all not to become to absorbed in the world our TV, computers, and other electronic toys provide us.

There is a lot of good to what technology has provided.

It has allowed us to become plugged in to an entire world from our homes.

But, there is a risk that as we become more plugged in to the electronic world of video games, the Internet and TV, we will become disconnected from the people we should be closest to.

Besides, spring finally has arrived.

We all should enjoy the good weather while it is here.

It's good for us.

A tough time for many

Gas prices have hit an all-time high.

Food prices are rising rapidly.

And the number of unemployed increased by 80,000 in March.

There is little doubt that the current state of the economy is hitting middle class families hard.

Everyone spends money on food and most people are dependent on vehicles to get around.

So rapid increases in the price of food and gas immediately dent household budgets.

Add in the fact that jobless claims have been on the rise and you have families who are seeing their incomes decline in the face of rising basic costs.

Take food for example.

Just in 2007, the cost of food in the U.S. increased 4 percent, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In 2008 the increase is expected to be as much as 4.5 percent.

It is the worst food inflation in 17 years.

Meanwhile, gas hit an all-time high this week.

Gas prices throughout Lake County reached $3.50 a gallon or more midweek.

And remember, this still is the start of spring.

It's just beginning.

Gas prices have historically spiked during the summer months.

Don't be shocked if we hit the $4 barrier this year. During such economic difficulty, many people turn to local charities.

The services that food pantries, churches and other local charitable groups provide to people can be indispensable.

Unfortunately, as people trim household budgets and cut back, charitable giving often declines. So, charities face more demand for services with less revenue.

We urge local residents who are able to dig deep and give to your local food pantry, church or other charity.

It's the right - and necessary - thing to do.

Let's help our neighbors.

Understanding the signs

To the Editor:

The local public health administrators of the Northern Illinois Public Health Consortium, a membership organization comprised of the local health departments of the City of Chicago and the counties of Cook, DuPage, Kane, Kankakee, Kendall, Lake, McHenry, Will and Winnebago, would like to express our deepest condolences to the families of those killed and injured on Feb. 14 at Northern Illinois University. Indeed, schools and municipalities across the country are struggling with concerns over youth violence. While youth violence in the United States is formally addressed by the courts, public educational institutions, and social service agencies, violence prevention must also be understood as a public health issue.

The relationship between youth suicidal behavior, youth substance abuse and youth depression is clear. Many youth who ultimately commit acts of terrible violence have a past with many red flags popping up. Only in hindsight do we recognize these events as cries for help. In order to hear the cry, we must build a better system to listen. Mental health education, substance abuse education, clinical crisis intervention, clinical suicide intervention, and linkage to respective treatment services should be available in all public schools. A network of interrelated services in the schools can give kids a chance to talk-it-out before they act-it-out.

Understanding the signs of potential youth violence is necessary in order to prevent future tragedies. These include witnessing violence, access to a firearm, disrespectful opinion of parents, disrespectful ideologies about others, and threatening behavior. Recognizing the signs and signifiers of youth violence toward oneself includes sudden behavior problems, changes in friends, association with substance abusers, stealing, secretive behavior and depression.

The red flags are there. It is time to build a system that can recognize them, and act before tragedy strikes again. Teens and young adults who exhibit "red flag" behavior need to be referred to a system of services that will provide a healing environment and give the youth a voice to explain the pain he or she is feeling.

Let us also be clear about the need to avoid stigmatization of mental health illness. Mental health illnesses should be treated as one would seek medical care for a disease affecting the heart or the kidneys. There should be no shame in accessing these services.

Funding is needed for schools to reach out to those health care providers and agencies in the community who are able to build the network of services that our schools need so desperately. An act of lethal violence as

Startling statistics

To the Editor:

A recent study by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention found that one in 50 children younger than age 1 were victims of nonfatal child abuse or neglect in the United States over the one-year period from October 2005 - September 2006, as reported by CNN.com. Even more disturbing was the finding that one-third, or about 30,000 of these cases, involved infants who were a week old or younger.

These are startling statistics that further highlight the need for preventive services and programs for families at risk of abuse or neglect.

Healthy Families Illinois and

Parents Too Soon are programs that coach new parents to help foster their children's development and growth. These programs help prevent child abuse and neglect in highly at-risk families through community-based home-visiting programs. Unfortunately, these services do not reach all the families who want and need services.

That is why Kids Hope United, a human service organization dedicated to protecting children and strengthening families, encourages the passage of House Bill 5570/Senate Bill 2235, which would appropriate $10 million from the General Revenue Fund to the Department of Human Services to expand these crucial programs.

Support for this bill would help curb these alarming statistics and secure the futures of these young, vulnerable children.

Growth does not always bring progress

For many years, it was taken for granted that community growth was synonymous with progress. The two words were interchangeable, and many people still believe that. Does growth always mean progress?

Is it progress when a community gets a big-box store and loses at least a half dozen, often family-operated, small stores? I read recently that Antioch lost two long-time hardware stores, an aftermath of the big-box invasion.

When I listen to some of the arguments on the County Board, there are still some who want more growth here to compete with the insurgence of growth in southern Wisconsin.

To them, I would say there's not too much room left in Lake County for large-scale growth after the past decades of growth that permanently reshaped the county's landscape. We've since slowed down. In the last seven years, the county's population rose by only 10 percent, or about 68,000 people, and I guess that some would call that stagnant.

Recently, I read that Kendall County, southwest of Chicago, was named the fastest growing county in the country since 1990. In that period, Kendall grew by almost 80 percent to 42,000 people, no longer the very rural county for umpteen years.

Naturally, public officials are boasting of their growth expansion as progress. I haven't heard their No. 1 citizen, retired U.S. Speaker Dennis Hastert, join in that chorus.

It's natural that Lake and DuPage counties will not grow as fast in the near future. Their major growth is behind them and their challenge is to manage the growth that they experienced in a sensible, smart way to ensure quality of life for their citizens.

Kendall County will find out, as the larger counties found, that the "grass isn't always greener on the other side." More bluntly, they might wish some day that they hadn't traded their green grasses for asphalt and concrete.

Someone once described to me what came with growth. He said that there are too many people in too many cars driving too fast on too crowded roads to go nowhere. And there's a limit on how many highways we can build.

Also, the politicians aren't always right when they equate growth with tax advantages. Tell that to the taxpayers, many on fixed incomes, who find that their property taxes have increased. New taxes are needed for burgeoning schools and for infrastructure costs like roads, bridges and sewers, as well as more police and fire protection.

How fast is too fast when it comes to growth? I did no analysis of Kendall, but common sense tells me that developers there have been no different than elsewhere, using subprime interest financing to lure housing sales. Do we call it progress if land development leads to large scale foreclosures and empty boarded-up houses in prime areas. Plus what has that done to our overall economy?

Helter-skelter, rapid, greed-driven growth hasn't brought progress or quality of life to our communities. It cannot be progress until it is smart growth, not fast, uncontrolled growth.

Preparing a garden

Spring is finally here, and even a novice gardener like myself can't wait to get dirty. After living in apartments and condos most of my adult life, I really love having a backyard.

Last year, because of the abundance of pets and kids trekking over our lawn Tim, my husband, and I decided to go organic with our lawn care products.

Our first foray was a purchase of organic fertilizer called Cockadoodle Doo. Aptly named, it is made of chicken ... doo.

I got such great reviews on various Web sites that Tim picked up a bag at the store and went out to spread it with great enthusiasm. Several minutes later, I heard retching sounds coming from the backyard.

Apparently, the bag we purchased had been sitting out in the rain at some point and Cockadoodle Doo came out of the bag firmly compacted and smelling of the outdoors.

An outdoor chicken coop, that is.

It was lumpy and impossible for my husband to spread. It was also impossible not to laugh as he ran in the house with his shirt over his nose, making gagging noises.

This year, we vowed to try again.

I recently purchased a bag of slug and snail repellent called Escar-go.

While I hope it will prove to keep slugs away from my hostas, it has certainly proven that organic companies feel the need to compensate for lack of chemicals with wacky names.

As much as I enjoy digging and planting, we have a fairly new house and the amount of work to be done outside can seem overwhelming.

And although I love the predictability of buds appearing on the trees and flowers peeking through the dirt and mulch, I know surprises pop up all the time.

Some are pleasant, (a "bonus" flower you didn't expect,) and some are not (the newly planted bush gnawed to nubs by a voracious rabbit). Sometimes, when, just like life, the big picture seems overwhelming,

I try to savor each individual blossom, taking life one day of green at a time.

Can America live without TVs, gadgets this weekend?

TOTAL TURNOFF

By GENEVA WHITE
gwhite@nwnewsgroup.com

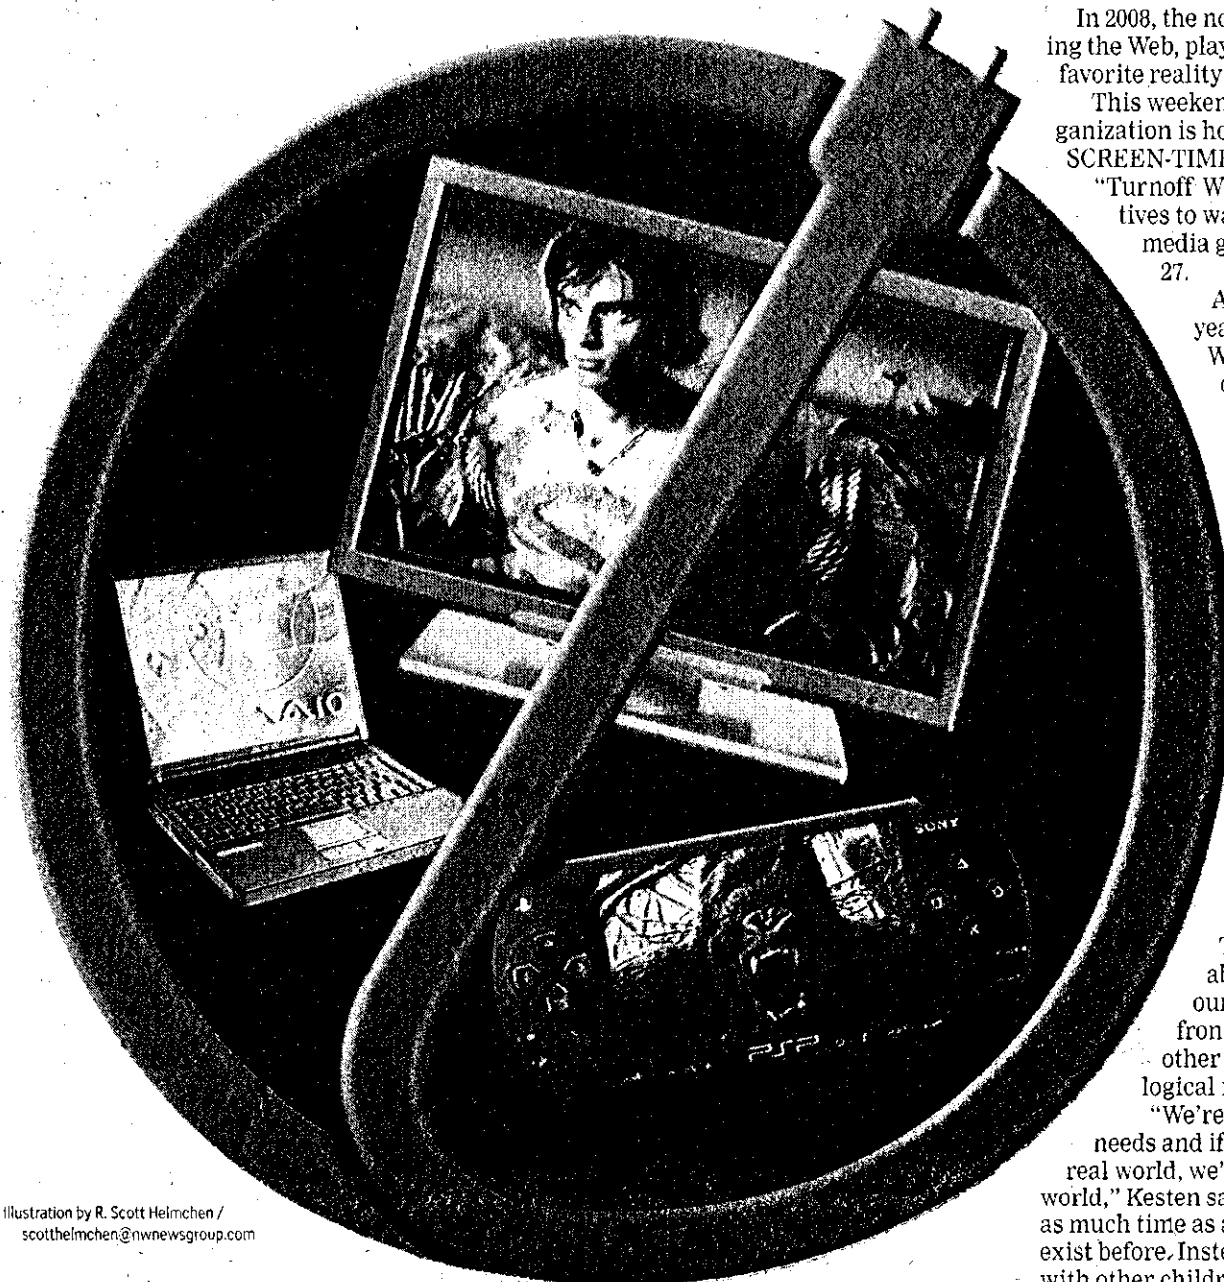

Illustration by R. Scott Heimchen / scottheimchen@nwnewsgroup.com

In 2008, the notion of spending a week without surfing the Web, playing a video game or watching your favorite reality show might seem preposterous.

This weekend, that's exactly what one national organization is hoping folks will do. The Center for SCREEN-TIME Awareness is launching its annual "Turnoff Week" to encourage healthier alternatives to watching TV and using other electronic media gadgets. The week runs through April 27.

Although the campaign, now in its 14th year, originally was dubbed TV Turnoff Week, the word "TV" has now been dropped from the title. These days, staring at a screen for hours on end goes way beyond television, said Robert Kesten, executive director for the Center for SCREEN-TIME Awareness.

"Twenty years ago, television was the key element in people's real use of personal electronic media," Kesten said. "That has changed dramatically, and continues to change as more devices are created and more people are financially in reach of those devices."

Kesten, whose organization is based in Washington, D.C., said technology offers numerous benefits such as staying in touch through e-mail and doing research online. Television allows us to see and learn about places, people and issues outside our everyday lives. But too much time in front of screens can lead to obesity and other health problems, as well as psychological issues, Kesten said.

"We're looking for things that fulfill our needs and if our needs are not being met in the real world, we'll try to find substitutes in the virtual world," Kesten said. "The idea that children will spend as much time as allowed playing with Webkinz didn't exist before. Instead of encouraging children to play with other children, or go outside and ride a bicycle, we're allowing them to become solitary and sedentary individuals."

School-age children should spend no more than one to two hours a day in front of a screen, said Dr. Bob Belter, a pediatrician. For children who are overweight, health experts recommend no more than one hour a day in front of a screen, Belter said. Babies and toddlers shouldn't have any TV time.

"It's a concern to pediatricians as well as a public health issue," Belter said. "The rate of obesity is continuing to climb."

Try these activities during Turnoff Weekend

- Take a walk. When was the last time you checked out your neighborhood or city?
- Go for a bike ride.
- Visit your local museum or library.
- Host a cookout. Invite close friends and neighbors.
- If the weather is too lousy to go outdoors, play a game of cards or a board game.

This cuteness is guaranteed to give a toothache

Oh my doodness. Wook at dem toot widdle paws. I'm really not sure why April has been such a cute month for me. (I'm not the one who's cute; I've discovered more gray hair and a huge wrinkle between my eyes that would make Keith Richards shudder.)

It's either shrieking hormones or complete insanity, but I think it's environmental, too.

It might have something to do with the three infant-related cute fests I've attended in the last 10 days: A first birthday party, a christening and a baby shower.

Jana Thompson

Somebody asked me the other day if I'd ever want to have children (I think folks worry now that I've reached a ripe old 31). I answered them honestly: "If I wanted a baby, I know several people who would let me borrow one for half an hour."

If you're a cute freak of the animal-lover persuasion, I suggest - no actually, I forcefully urge - you to visit www.cuteoverload.com.

It's a compendium of view-submitted adorable-ness filled with naughty puppies and yawning kittens and other diabetes-inducing photos of mammalian bambinos.

The Webmaster of www.cuteoverload.com has the same vaguely disturbed sense of humor that I do, what with the made-up words and all.

I've always said that when I die, I'll know if I'm in heaven because there will be two rooms: The Calorie-less Pizza Room and the Kitten, Puppy and Baby Room.

That would keep me busy for eternity.

Literally.

A fabulous fruit mix

Compote contains berries, orange juice

By JEAN KRESSY
kgressey@nwnewsgroup.com

If presentation counts for anything, the fruit cup at one of New York's fanciest restaurants was a stunner.

There was nothing on the menu that indicated it was anything more than fruit in a dish, but it sounded like a good way to wind up a meal that had more than its share of butter and cream. So we ordered it.

What came next was practically the gourmet equivalent of the crown jewels being brought to the table. It took two waiters to pull it off; one to announce its arrival and sweep away any lingering crumbs and another to put the dish down.

As desserts go, fruit is easy and versatile, and even the smallest of extra steps gives an added dimension.

This spring fruit compote, for instance, is a combination of dried apricots, orange, pineapple and fresh berries. But before the berries are added, the ingredients are marinated in an orangy mixture of Grand Marnier and marmalade.

It comes to the table in ordinary stemmed glasses - no team of waiters, just a deliciously simple fruit cup that can be adapted to include anything in season.

Spring Fruit Compote

½ cup Grand Marnier (orange liqueur) or orange juice
2 tablespoons orange marmalade
½ cup quartered dried apricots
Grated zest and sectioned fruit of 1 navel orange

1 fresh pineapple, peeled, cored and cubed
4 pints fresh berries: strawberries, raspberries, blueberries and blackberries

1. Combine Grand Marnier, marmalade, dried apricots, orange zest and sections, and pineapple up to 24 hours in advance.

2. Up to 1 hour before serving, rinse berries. Hull strawberries and slice. Halve blackberries if they are large. Leave blueberries and raspberries whole. Toss berries, as gently as possible, with marinated fruit. Serves 8 to 10.

'Better Late' explores family

By TOM WITOM
thomaswitom@yahoo.com

In "Better Late," a new play by Larry Gelbart and Craig Wright, an ailing, somewhat cantankerous 83-year-old stroke victim is invited to convalesce in the home of his compassionate ex-wife. Her husband reluctantly agrees to the arrangement.

What's supposed to be a temporary stop drags on to three months and becomes a totally untenable situation that causes a major rift between the couple, Nora (Linda Kimbrough) and Lee (John Mahoney), a successful film composer.

Unfortunately, it can drag the play a little, too.

Initially, Julian (Mike Nussbaum, inimitable as the jilted former husband who still carries a grudge after 25 years) relishes the opportunity to recuperate under the same roof with his still-doting onetime spouse.

The time together gives both a chance to hash over and reconcile their unresolved differences – and to discover truths about their relationship.

It also forces Lee to re-examine issues he has with his wife.

Rounding out the cast is Steve Key as Billy, the troubled son of Nora and Julian whose own marriage is on the brink of collapsing.

"Better Late," directed by BJ Jones, runs 95 minutes without intermission.

It capitalizes on these elements, mixing situation comedy humor with flat-out serious drama, the forte of Gelbart, who co-authored "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" and created the televised series "M*A*S*H," and Wright, who created ABC-TV's "Dirty Sexy Money" and Northlight's "Lady," a Jeff Award-nominated 2007 Best New Play.

The play is being performed through May 11 at the Northlight Theatre at North Shore Center for the Performing Arts in Skokie. Tickets start at $35.

Second Wayne's Pizza Opens: More Of A Good Thing

By LESLIE GLAZIER-WERNER

Wayne's Pizza has been the place to go for pizza in the Third Lake/Grayslake area for the past 20 years. Now father and daughter, Wayne and Jessica Dayment, have teamed up to open another location at 333 Route 45 in Lindenhurst.

Jessica said they've been busy selling the same great pizza since opening their doors on December 15. "Dad's recipes are very good. He took a long time perfecting them," she said. She added that her father has been making pizza for 30 years.

Twenty-one year old Jessica brings enthusiasm to the business, as well as 7 years experience working in her father's restaurant. She and the staff were warm and engaging, and the service was quick.

Wayne's has thin crust, "double decker", and pan pizza. The thin crust, cheese and pepperoni pizza I tried had a generous amount of fresh pepperoni sandwiched between two layers of melted cheese;

the sauce had a satisfying punch.

The restaurant also has a full menu that includes hot dogs, hamburgers, sandwiches, appetizers, and even dinners. "People really like our homemade Italian beef and our spaghetti," Jessica noted. Prices are very reasonable. For example, a 21 shrimp dinner with French fries and coleslaw is only $5.95.

And don't forget dessert. Wayne's has soft serve ice cream and 8 flavors of hand-packed ice cream all year round. So try a shake or sundae and enjoy a bit of summer.

In addition to carry out and delivery, the new Wayne's Pizza has a fun dining area with seating for 40. The space has the feel of a 1950s diner, with stainless steel dinettes and vintage photos on the walls. The red, white, and black color scheme echoes this theme, along with model cars and a Coke machine from the period. The dining area is ideal for birthday parties and team get-togethers.

Wayne's Pizza also has a variety

Jessica said they hope to open more locations in the future. Here's to their continued success, because you can never get too much of a good thing.

Support the little guys

You might recognize my name from some of the sports stories that have shown up in sports in the last couple of weeks.

I'm not new to the paper - in fact, next month will be my two-year mark - but I am a little fresh to the sports side of the paper.

And I'm thrilled to be able to share sports news that is going on in Lake County with you.

Because our paper is a weekly, it gives us an opportunity to give you more in-depth articles about players and coaches in Lake County.

But as you might have noticed last week, it also gives us a chance to highlight local athletes who are doing exceptional things outside of our coverage area.

I'm talking about the profile I got to do on Stephen Brust, a forward with the Chicago Storm who lives in Hawthorn Woods.

Doing a feature on Brust was quite an experience because it brought me to my first Major Indoor Soccer League game.

Considering my favorite team is the Chicago Wolves, a minor league hockey team, I tend to enjoy supporting the teams and players that aren't as mainstream.

One look at the crowd that night will let you know that the Chicago Storm aren't as mainstream.

The Sears Centre, which can hold about 11,000 people, was not even close to being filled, and it was playoff game against one of the highest scoring teams, La Raza De Monterrey.

It seems like a shame more people didn't make it out to the game.

I had a great time learning more about a sport I never thought twice about.

But the fast-paced atmosphere definitely grabbed my attention.

I won't lie; I was completely shocked to learn that there is a three-point line for indoor soccer.

All my embarrassments aside, I had a great time and would love to go back.

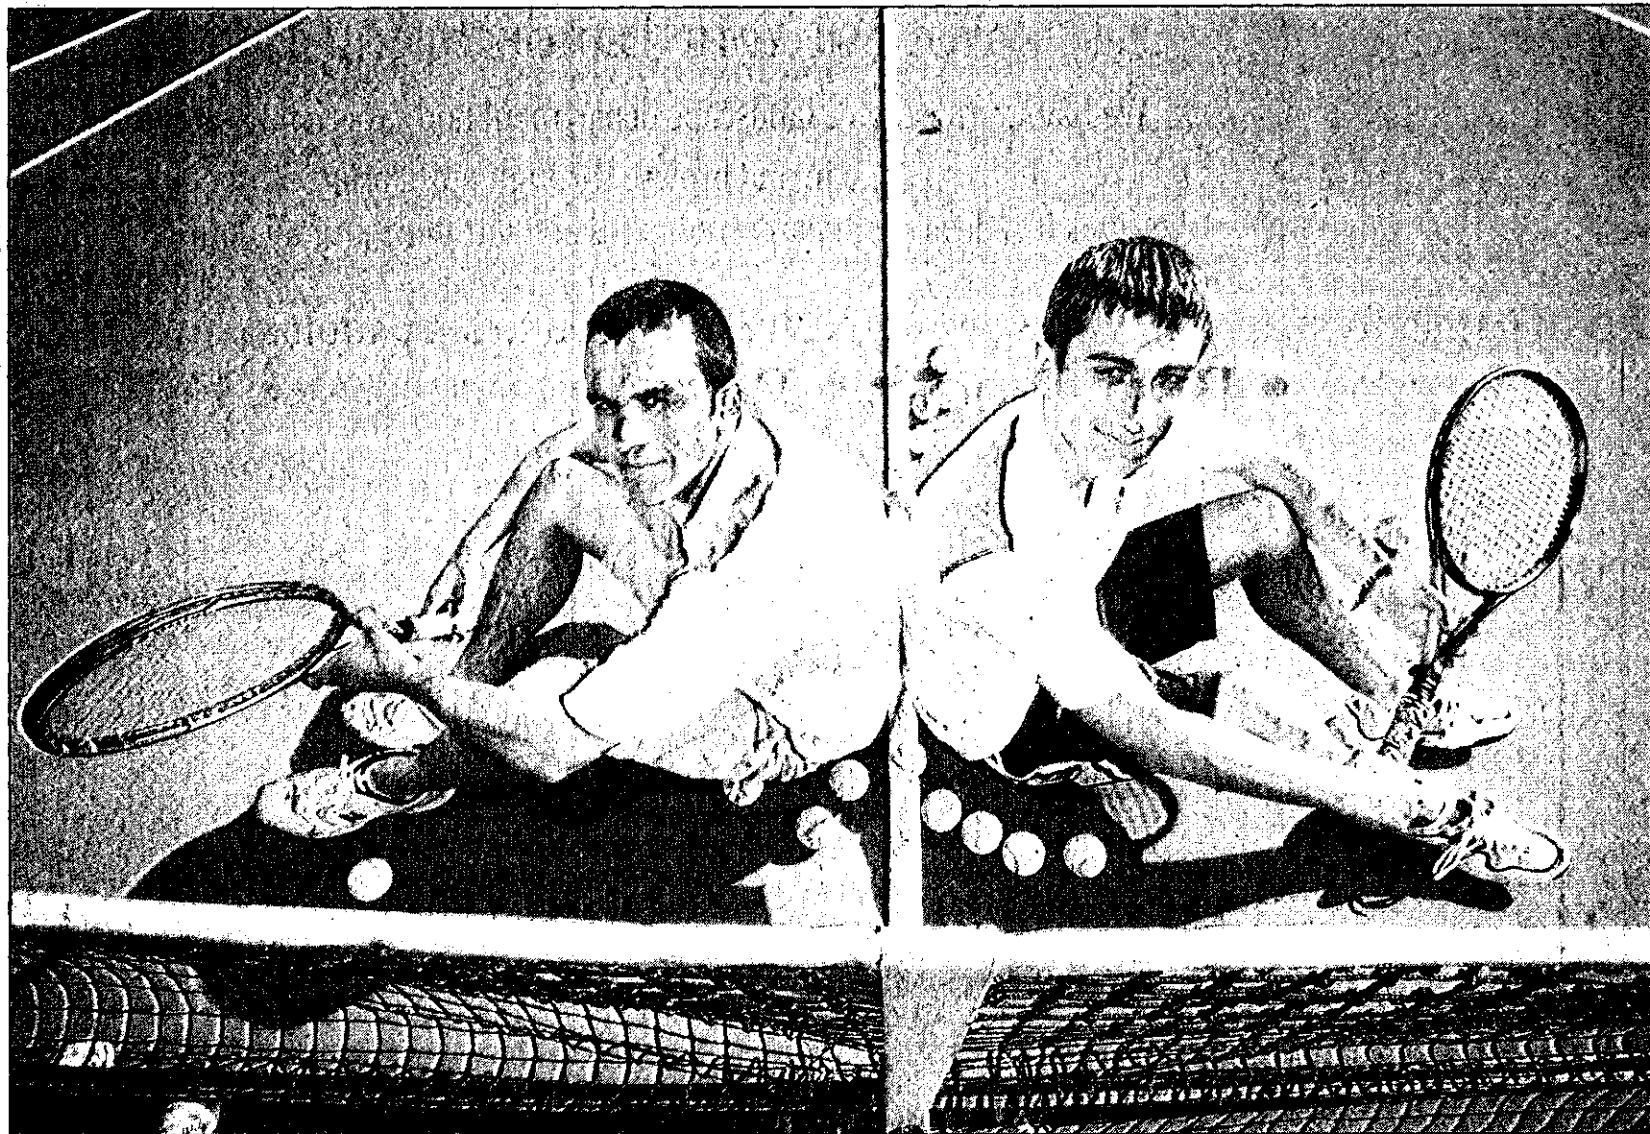

For many of us in Lake County, a drive to the Sears Centre in Hoffman Estates would be quicker than going to Chicago and fighting for affordable parking.

I'm not suggesting to turn your back on the Bears, Blackhawks, Bulls, Cubs, or Sox.

What I'm suggesting is give other teams like the Wolves, the Storm or the Chicago Shamrox, a professional lacrosse team, a chance.

They just might surprise you.

Warren's number one doubles team seniors Konrad Siczek (left) and Igor Fedorov, have both been on varsity since their sophomore year.

Measures of their success

Warren's No. 1 doubles team a winning combination

By JESSICA JACOBSEN
jjacobsen@nwnewsgroup.com

GURNEE - Finding a partner in tennis who you work well with can be a challenge for some. But for Warren's No. 1 doubles team of Igor Fedorov and Konrad Siczek, their 12-4 record, as of April 21, shows that isn't a challenge for them.

"It's important in doubles the aspect of knowing where the other person is," Fedorov said.

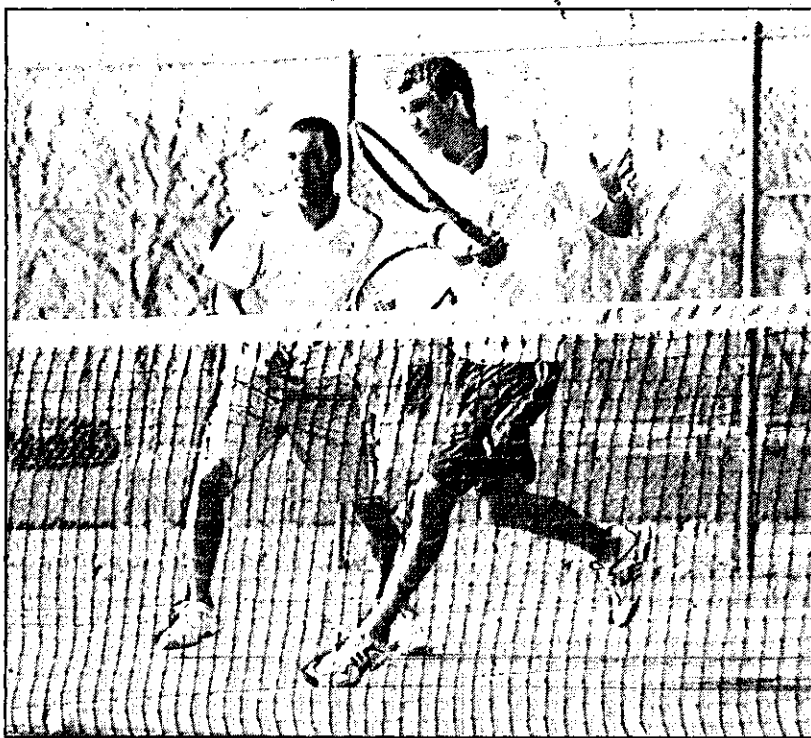

There is another reason why these two get along on the court.

"Off the court we're friends," Fedorov said. "We've known each other a really long time ... he's my neighbor."

The seniors have been competing at the varsity level since their sophomore year. Coach Greg Cohen said Siczek got some playing time his freshman year. Now the duo are looked at as leaders for the Blue Devils.

"I think they're great leaders," Cohen said. "They work hard so they lead by example. They have a great rapport talking to people."

"They bought into this idea of team as much as anyone we've had. They are cheering for their teammates; they are helping their team members."

Warren's No. 1 doubles team, Konrad Siczek (left) and Igor Fedorov, play during practice last week. Both attribute success to Warren's junior excellence program.

It was Cohen's keen eye that led to this duo meeting up at the varsity level.

Siczek, 18, has been playing tennis since he was in fourth grade, but Fedorov, 17, didn't start until seventh grade when Cohen saw him playing with his dad one day. Cohen invited Fedorov to play in the Junior Excellence Academy, a tennis program operated by the Warren tennis coaching staff.

"I started playing tennis because of the junior excellence program," Fedorov said.

Fedorov and Siczek have learned many things over the years that have helped them. One thing is the importance of every match.

"We've definitely lost some matches just by letting up and not focusing completely," Siczek said.

They also have learned something else that is important when it comes to any sport.

"Just being on the court with class," Siczek.

When it comes to attributing where their success comes from, Siczek doesn't hesitate to give credit to Cohen and the programs.

"I would say definitely the junior program, [and] the summer camps that coach Cohen and the other coaches run," Siczek said.

Cohen, on the other hand, gives all the credit to Fedorov and Siczek.

"They put in so much time, so much effort," Cohen said. "They're also very good athletes. They're really smart tennis players; smart kids first, but smart tennis players."

Cohen wasn't kidding.

Helping your garden survive a dry spell

(NAPSA)-A prolonged period of hot, dry weather can be stressful for both gardeners and plants. That's because heat, humidity, and low rain levels can ultimately lead to the devastation of lawns, shrubs and gardens.

While a drought can be a burden for any gardener, experts at Vigoro suggest several tips to maintain and keep your garden beautiful during a summer drought.

- Mulch properly-Use two to three inches of mulch around trees and shrubs and one to two inches around vegetable and flower plants to keep the soil temperature cooler and to keep moisture in the ground.

- Water early or late-To cut down on water loss through evaporation, watering in the early morning or evening is best.

- Use soaker hoses or a drip irrigation system-By using soaker hoses and drip irrigation systems, water can be directed to the root zone rather than the leaves, which causes less chance of evaporation.

- Use rainwater to water your plants-Save rainwater by putting a rain collector under downspouts from the roof. Use a watering can to directly apply the rainwater to plants.

- Plant drought-tolerant species-Choose annuals or perennials that can survive in high heat, high humidity and low water conditions.

Recently, Vigoro, a supplier of lawn and garden products, introduced a line of over 200 annuals and perennials, including several drought-tolerant species. The drought-tolerant annuals include cleome, coleus, marigolds, petunias, begonias, phlox, salvia and zinnia, while perennials such as tickseed, sage, hollyhock and Iceland poppy can also be a wise choice for gardens experiencing drought conditions.

Tips for better spray painting during spring spruce-ups

(MS) — A fresh coat of paint can make almost anything look new again. Especially during spring and summer, many do-it-yourselfers find they can complete home and yard spruce-ups quickly and easily with a can of spray paint. New innovations are making spray paint better than ever.

When purchasing spray paint, remember this tip: the aerosol can does more than hold the paint — it is the application tool. It affects finish quality as well as your comfort and convenience while painting.

The new EZ Touch 360° Dial Spray: Tip on cans of Krylon Indoor/Outdoor Paint rotates a full 360° at the touch of a finger, so users can change the direction of the spray pattern for greater paint control. Just twist the dial to direct the spray vertically, horizontally, or any angle in between. You get greater precision and more coverage per pass with less chance of runs, drips and overspray. With a lighter-touch push-button, hand and finger cramping are reduced or eliminated for more comfortable spraying.

According to manufacturer's research, 88 percent of users report greater accuracy; 82 percent report no finger or hand fatigue, and 94 percent said they would recommend it to a friend.

For only about $3.99 per can, you can find long-lasting spray paints that apply quickly and easily to metal, wood, wicker, plastic, ceramics and other surfaces. They range from a colorful array of hard-working, high gloss finishes to more glamorous textured finishes and even new brushed metallic looks — finishes that are perfect for creating wall art, updating flea market furniture finds or bringing new life to shutters, flower pots, mailboxes and more.

When spray painting:

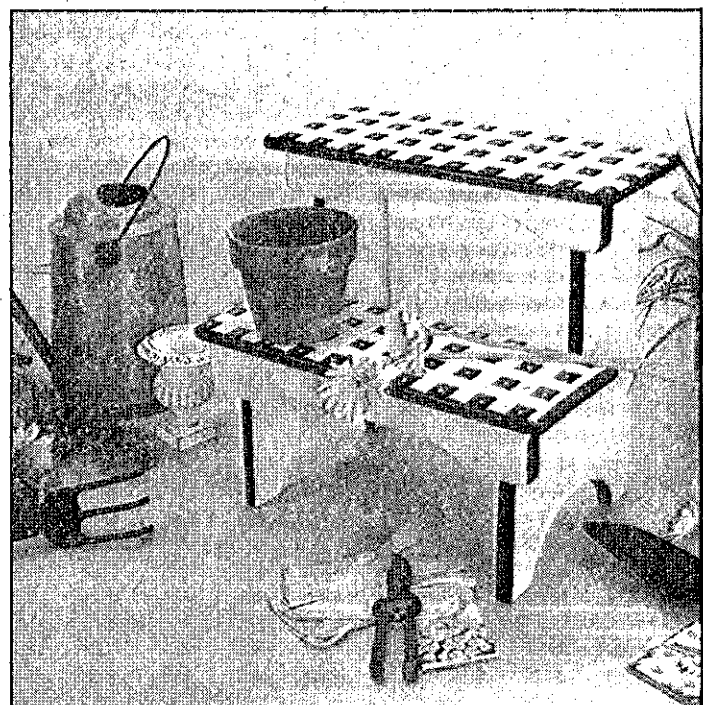

- Work in a well-ventilated area.
- Use newspapers or drop cloths to cover surrounding surfaces.
- Paint only clean, dry surfaces.
- Shake the can vigorously.

- Apply multiple thin coats.
- Don't handle surface until dry.

Since the can is the applicator, there are no brushes to clean with spray painting. Aerosol cans are conveniently disposable and recyclable. With dry times as fast as 10 minutes or less, there's really no better or quicker way to complete many projects or to paint hard-to-reach, irregular surfaces.

You can combine spray paint with stencils to create endless borders and whimsical design motifs on tables, chairs, dressers, headboards or whatever suits your fancy. ## Consider materials and maintenance when building a new deck (NAPSA)-As deck season kicks in, many Americans are thinking about building a new deck or sprucing up an old one.

If you are building, consider the type of deck and materials that will best suit your needs before heading off to the local home-improvement center. Everyone knows about wood decks, but more and more consumers these days are choosing composite materials for their aesthetic value, low maintenance and eco-friendly reputation. The Value of Composites

It's fun to think about color and other aesthetic issues, but don't forget about maintenance. Proper maintenance of a wood deck means waterproofing every six months and staining the deck once a year to maintain the color and prevent fading. And even before you get to the staining phase, you must clean the deck with chemicals and a pressure washer. Sanding may also be necessary to achieve a smooth finish. In contrast, composite decks are resistant to cracking, warping and splintering. They do not need to

Compared to wood, composite decking offers easy installation and reduced maintenance.

Composite decks are made from a variety of materials. For example, LP WeatherBest, which is available in six different nature-inspired colors, is made from wood flour mixed with high-density polyethylene plastic and then finished with a wood-textured grain to provide the look and feel of wood.

Cost

In addition to maintenance, cost is another important consideration. Wood decking materials range from inexpensive cuts of lumber to long-lasting woods such as redwood or cedar. Redwood and untreated cedar have the advantage of being resistant to insects and rot, but they aren't impervious and still require the regular maintenance associated with all wood decking products.

Wood prices are generally lower than composite materials, but you need to factor in the extra expense and time associated with maintaining and repairing wood decks for an accurate cost comparison. While the initial price is higher with composite materials, you can actually save money over time through reduced maintenance.

Maintenance Tips

Once you've installed your new composite wood deck, keeping it looking clean and beautiful is easy:

- Wash down the deck with a garden hose on a regular basis. Pollutants you may not see—pollen, dust, dirt and other airborne particles—will be washed away with regular spraying.
- Scrub off built-up dust and dirt with a common deck cleaner.
- Deal with stains quickly.

Don't allow them to penetrate the deck's surface or bake under the sun.

• Clean grease or oil stains with any common household degreaser. Also, keep a splatter guard under your barbecue grill.

Duo opts not to play in college

• TENNIS

Fedorov is ranked No. 3 in his graduating class and last spring he received a 5.0 GPA out of a 4.0 scale.

Finding time to balance school with tennis could be a challenge, but for these two they make it work.

"I guess I don't do as much stuff outside of school once tennis season starts," Fedorov said. "I want to focus on just school and tennis."

Siczek feels the same way. "It's just managing time more than anything," Siczek said.

Even with their success on the court, Fedorov and Siczek will not play tennis competitively in college.

"I was looking at my options, but it wasn't a top priority for me," Siczek said.

He will attend Marquette University in Milwaukee where he will major in economics.

Fedorov will attend the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign where he will major in engineering.

Both said they would like to still play, but for club or intramural sports.

Watching these two leave will be difficult for Cohen, who has coached them for so long. Cohen thinks so much these players that he even nominated Fedorov for the Pitchford Sportsmanship Award in Illinois.

"I am enjoying every minute of their senior season. They have been such a great part of our program," Cohen said. "They have become great leaders. I am truly lucky to be able to coach these two players."

Been waiting for a suitable day care for your dog?

There are people who give their dogs commands and those who give them back rubs. And there are some who believe a dog is a companion and others who call him family.

If you see yourself at the end of these lists, you're not alone. And neither is your dog. We're Central Bark Doggy Day Care, and we're as crazy about your dog as you are.

Mention this ad for a FREE behavior assessment and FREE first day of day care!
